Date & Venue

September 9-10, 2019
Ritsumeikan University, Suzaku Campus, Kyoto, Japan

Rationale

While contributing to the investigation of individual and group behavior toward language, Language Management Theory (LMT) (Jernudd & Neustupný, 1987; Neustupný, 1985, 2004) has established its own specific position in the field of sociocultural research. Based on LMT and other sociocultural and sociolinguistic theories, the symposium will focus on not only linguistic and sociocultural problems, which participants face in contact situations, but also on how participants encounter positive intercultural phenomena and how they appreciate them.

Invited speakers

Björn H. Jernudd (independent scholar, Washington, DC)
Satoshi Miyazaki (Waseda University, Tokyo)
Jiří Nekvapil (Charles University, Prague)
